WASHINGTON ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT UPDATE

Talking About Ourselves

By Dan Sherr

If you live or visit Washington, you have a lot to talk about. Not that one, we mean Washington, CT. Starting last fall, the Washington Economic Development Committee asked itself, "what's the best way to do that?" WED has made substantial progress over the last year. And the community has responded.

Town Newsletter Mailed to Every Postal Address - With the Spring 2017 issue, the Town Newsletter is postal patron mailed to all the households. It'll also be emailed to everyone who has provided their email address. The Washington Events Calendar – www.Washingtoneventscalendar.org - is literally bursting at the seams. Lots to do in Washington.

Route 202 Signs - With a bit of bragging about Lake Waramaug, New Preston Falls and the Town's Five Villages, a gateway sign announces arrival in Washington for those traveling up Route 202 from New Milford.

And two new signs call out the Village of New Preston for those traveling East or West on Route 202.

Saying it Simply - Every town has a brand. Some are intentional, most are not. When a town is mentioned, a brand image is immediately conjured...followed by a smile or a frown. Marketing seeks to attach a compelling story to a brand so the smile is immediate. A logo, some with a tagline, instantly reminds us of the brand and its story. The WED Marketing Taskforce has been working on both since the beginning of 2017. With the help of the Connecticut

Economic Resource Center, a Washington Town logo and tagline has been created.

Sharing the Story, Building the Brand - Washington's story is compelling. Arts and culture, parks and preserves, and five wonderful villages, all with remarkable stories...some dating back 10,000 years and some only last week. The WED Marketing Taskforce has been planning and guiding the development of Washington Town Media. The goal is to make it easy to tell and find the remarkable assets and activities of Washington whether you live here or are visiting. Watch for a Town Marketing website, a refreshed Facebook page and Constant Contact this fall.

Message from the Selectman's Office

After a long, cool spring the summer season is upon us. The Romford Road bridge over the Shepaug River has been closed due to deterioration of the supporting I-beams. Access to all Romford Road addresses must be made from Route 109. This bridge had been scheduled for replacement in the summer of 2018. With the cooperative efforts of WMC Engineering and ConnDOT it has now been pushed up to fall of 2017 if DEEP permits can be obtained in a timely manner.

Other summer projects will be repaving Kirby Road and Ferry Bridge Road along with replacement of the sidewalk along Kirby Road.

The Bryan Plaza renovation has gone out to bid to be started in early fall and to be completed before the holidays. The project will be done in stages to allow access to all the plaza businesses during construction.

The water main replacement on the Washington Green continues. Work is currently proceeding on Wykeham Road as individual house services are hooked in to the new water main, once completed Aquarion Water will have a contractor give Wykeham Road a much needed repaving. To complete the project Aquarion will be connecting the new Kirby Road and Wykeham Road mains and tying in customers on Old North Road and Parsonage Lane.

You have or will have an insert in your tax bill requesting contact information: name, address, email, and phone number for text messages, please return it with your tax payment. Washington is generating an email list to provide information on Town events, reminders of Town meetings, and general information about goings on in Town. Your information will NOT be shared and our current Alert Now reverse 911 phone system will still be used for emergency messages.

All in all it'll be another busy summer, please be patient and use caution around these and other construction sites in Washington.

Spotlight on Business: WAA @ 65

By Dan Sherr

For 65 years, the Washington Art Association & Gallery has beckoned the creative and the curious to explore their passion for the visual arts. Born by a cadre of established artists in 1952, WAA has evolved over two-thirds of a century into a one-of-a-kind icon of art in the northwest corner. Whether a creator or a collector, WAA delivers a discovery experience that transforms visitors into members.

Housed in a building that survived the '55 flood, the intimate and unassuming gallery and studio fully illuminates world-class art for the visitor. With classes, exhibitions, and galleries, WAA encourages the discovery of "your creative self." Art thrives on diversity – creative, critiques and conversation. WAA is a sanctuary for such exchanges often establishing life-long kinships.

The next 65? With second generation leadership from Peter Talbot, AIA, WAA is envisioning the next generation of The Association. Foremost, it'll continue what it does best - Education, including films and lectures, Exhibitions, including early talent and established artists and offering art for sale. And Events that continue to foster collaboration with organizations looking to extend the arts deeper into the community.

For example, WAA is planning a 2018 outdoor sculpture tour for the Depot. Curated by WAA trustees Barbara Talbot and Mark Mennin, the sculptor who created "Currents," the granite sculpture at The Judy Black Memorial Park & Gardens, the Washington Art Association & Gallery will install approximately 20 pieces throughout the Depot. The installations will be arranged to create a walking tour throughout the Depot. Property owners and shop keepers will be invited to participate with outdoor and indoor art installations.

The big news. Starting this fall, the Washington Art Association & Gallery will launch a major refresh and expansion of WAA. Gray Organschi Architecture, creators of the remarkable Thoreau Footbridge in Hidden Valley, have designed a phased next generation Building Program for the home of WAA.

Phase One will bring a new entry to the face of the building. A beacon at the far end of Bryan Plaza, the entry will welcome friends and visitors to the fountain of creative energy and practice that defines the Washington Art Association. The following phases (when funds have been raised) will reset and enhance the galleries and expand the footprint to provide additional space for the studio at the rear of the building. This project is a collaboration of the WAA building committee, which includes Peter Talbot, AIA, Alexander Purves, Professor Emeritus of Architecture at Yale University, contractor Eliot Johnson, and Elizabeth Gray, FAIA and Alan Organschi, Principals of Gray Organschi Architects, who have so generously given their time and expertise pro bono.

The Washington Art Association & Gallery is a cornerstone of the Town of Washington. Over WAA's first 65 years, it has educated generations of emerging arts and showcased the remarkable talent of northwest Connecticut. The Town says "Happy Birthday" and we share your excitement for the next 65 years.

Washington Parks and Recreation Commission

Over nineteen years ago, the Commission hired Lisa Easter as their recreation coordinator. During Lisa's years as coordinator she managed and conducted recreational activities and special events through the year, and inspected the facilities. The Commission thanks Lisa for her hard work and efforts on our behalf and we wish her well as she departs the recreation department for new opportunities.

The Commission welcomes Jeff Hammond as our new Recreation Coordinator. Jeff, who also works in the Selectmen's office, grew up in Washington and is a graduate of Shepaug Valley School. He'll be in the recreation office on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings. We look forward to working with Jeff and continuing to offer a variety of programs for the community, as well as maintaining our facilities.

Washington Environmental Council Future Now Expo!

You might think the weather was great; and it was. You might think the band was great; and it was. And you might think Congresswoman Elizabeth Esty was great; and she definitely was. Or, maybe you might think the presentation, workshops and vendors were great . . . and, trust me, they were. But in spite of all that greatness, it was the WAA Endangered Species Parade that stole the show!! Fifteen children, all wearing endangered species mask/hats, marched throughout our town, igniting smiles, applause and praise the entire time.

Thank you to all the vendors (ASAP!, Alan Mahahee, Annie Bananie Food Stand, Arbonne Organics, Artisan Bags, Aruna Chocolates, Back 40 Farm, Be Straw Free Campaign, Bee Knees Ice Pops, Camps Road Farm/Kent Falls Brewing Co., County Wine and Spirits, CT. NOFA, all the electric and hybrid cars, Everything Botanical, Hickory Stick Bookshop, Housatonic Valley Association, Institute For American Indian Studies, Land People Habitat, Litchfield Hills Solar, Mike's Beehives, Newbury Place, Rivers Alliance of Connecticut, Salt of the Earth, Solar City, Steinen Jewelry, Steep Rock Association, Traveling Farmer, Valley Spirit Cooperative and Wellness Center, Washington Art Association & Gallery, Weantinoge Heritage Land Trust and Wendell and Florence Minor).

And thank you to all our sponsors (The Steep Rock Association, Washington Art Association & Gallery, Rivers Alliance of CT., Small Area Land Trust, Ferguson/Sherr, Washington Conservation Commission, Stephanie Johnson, James Kelly Attorney, Lake Waramaug Task Force, HVA, The Judy Black Memorial Park and Gardens, Town of Washington, Washington Business Association, Warren Land Trust).

A shoutout to our volunteers . . . the six wonderful AmeriCorps NCCC Moose 4 volunteers (Adam, Josh, Kennedy, Jacob, Gus and Brandon) and the six Washington Police Cadets and Officer Patrick Kessler!

The WEC Future Now Environmental Expo was a HUGE success!!!

Smart But Scattered: Helping Your Child Reach Their Full

Educational Potential – Thursday, August 3 – 6:30pm - Many gifted learners meet with difficulties such as planning, organizing, time management and emotional control. They lose important school work, are known for "dawdling" and just can't seem to keep their act together. Highly intelligent, but often misunderstood, these students may be experiencing executive functions weaknesses. In this talk, led by Helen Waldron, Associate Director of Admissions at the Gunnery, participants will look at executive functions through a neurodevelopmental lens and learn about strategies for various executive functions challenges.

On the Path of a Genius: Finding Frederick Law Olmsted in CT – Thursday, August 10 – 6:30 pm - David Leff, local author, poet, historian and past recipient of the Olmsted Scholars Award, will guide participants on a special journey, with verbal and pictorial imagery. Discover how Olmsted, America's "father of landscape architecture," was able to create a sense of nature in the densest urban areas, and why his designs are enduring a century-and-a-half later.

Tai Chi/QiGong – Thursday, August 17 – 6:30pm – Doctor of Oriental Medicine, Jampa Mackenzie Stewart of Valley Spirit Cooperative and Wellness Center in Washington, presents an introduction to this ancient Chinese art. It helps develop physical and mental fitness and find a new harmony of the mind, body and spirit.

Stairwell Gallery

Heather Scofield's "Sans Wall" - On display July 29 through September 9. Opening reception Saturday, July 29 from 12-2pm. A dazzling new collection of New England landscapes. Heather's paintings have been described as kinetic and bold, vibrating with color and movement. Her influences include the Impressionists as well as Thomas Hart Benton and Charles Burchfield.

Museum

20th Anniversary of Tea for Two Hundred – Saturday, August 12 – 4-7pm. Revel in an afternoon of delicious food, wine and dancing to the music of the legendary "Beehive Queen" Christine Ohlman (once a Saturday Night Live Band vocalist) and Rebel Montez. Shop the fabled Silent Auction. Participate in the beloved hat contest featuring guest judge Laura Daly, world renowned milliner. Dress code is summer white attire. For more information and to register, please visit <http://teafortwohundred.net> or call 860-717-0695.

Shepaug Regional School District 12: Innovation

Washington, CT – June 27, 2017 - The Region 12 schools constantly promote the concept of innovation. At Washington Primary School (WPS), innovation is seen as introducing new ideas to bring about positive change to students and staff. This year, the entire school community embraced innovation through classroom and extracurricular opportunities for students focused around the 21st Century skills of creativity, collaboration and critical thinking while incorporating technology, science and the engineering design process.

Students in all grades created multimedia projects using software to combine illustrations, written work, video and voice together for presentations. The traditional morning announcements were turned into weekly news broadcasts by budding journalists using video production equipment. A new MakerSpace was born that allowed students to explore projects of their choice in varied topics such as photography, puppet-making, drawing, movie-making, Lego® building, engineering challenges, or sewing.

The enrichment program at WPS introduced innovation through the History of Transportation and Flight workshop where students built a magnetic levitation racer with a partner. Using the engineering process, students perfect their fast and efficient vehicle through trial and error along with multiple revisions.

Innovation will continue to be purposefully woven into the community culture of Washington Primary School, as students and staff embrace the skills of creativity, critical thinking, collaboration, new ideas, and new learning!

New Beginnings is a single-life ministry of The First Congregational Church. Our purpose is to provide a Christian focused church-based program for single adults. We seek to help single adults to find purpose and wholeness in all dimensions of their lives — physical, intellectual, emotional and spiritual. At the heart of our ministry are our support groups, which offer healing and personal growth to participants. We also have a social component to our ministry, which provides opportunities to meet new friends and enjoy new experiences.

Social Activities: Another important part of our mission is to provide a safe and supportive place for people to be single. Our weekly Friday night pot luck suppers are very popular with our members. Many feature a special program or theme. Theater trips, concerts, dances, hikes, picnics on Lake Waramaug and book discussion groups are some other events that round out our overall social program. Come join us.
